As President Obama's job approval poll flounders less than 50% and the unemployment rate stays more than 9%, mid-term election of the Congress approaches.

The Administration managed to pass Healthcare Reform Bill and the U.S. economy seems to be on recovery path.

Yet, you see the rising "Tea Party" movement nationwide, and in many districts, incumbents are expected to face tough election this year.

On Tuesday, May 25th, Japan Commerce Association of Washington, DC invites the excellent speaker in analyzing the undercurrent of the U.S. politics, who is Ambassador Michael Samuels, PhD, President of Samuels International Associates, an international business consulting firm well known to many JCAW members.

Ambassador Samuels is a known specialist on Washington's international trade and foreign policies and on the World Trade Organization (WTO). At this opportunity, he agrees to share his political insights derived from his long experience in Washington both in governmental and non-governmental positions.

He served as U.S. Ambassador to Sierra Leone, U.S. Ambassador to the GATT in Geneva and Deputy United States Trade Representative.

Ambassador Samuels holds a Ph.D. in African History from Columbia University and a B.A. from Yale University.

We hope you can join us in this timely event.
